Course Description
Russia is accustomed to playing the role of the “evil empire.” The current ongoing war in Ukraine has resurrected the Cold War-era narratives about Russia as a dark, aggressive, and ruthless military power. The notorious legislation of recent years—whose functions range from barring Americans from adopting Russian orphans to criminalizing the so-called “gay propaganda”—have further solidified Russia’s reputation as a country with little regard for human rights. Yet generations of Russian poets, artists, and writers have transformed the country’s systematic oppression and violence into spectacular forms of protest and self-expression. This course focuses on gender and sexuality in exploring an alternative cultural history of Russia, which highlights its queer legacy from the nineteenth century to the present. We will examine poetry, fiction, art, memoirs, plays, films, performances, and discursive texts that showcase uniquely Russian conceptions of marriage, gender relations, gender expression, and sexual identity. Attention will be paid to the ways in which Russian and Western narratives of queerness align and diverge. In English. No knowledge of Russian is required or expected.

Writing Assignments
In addition to a Midterm Paper (3-5pp.) and a Final Paper (7-10pp.), you will be asked to write short weekly reading responses on Moodle. (We will discuss a possibility of posting interpretative content on social media in lieu of the Moodle forum and thus extend the in-class ideas into the world beyond the classroom.) Evaluation criteria and instructions will be specified in the prompt for each paper.

Oral Presentations
Active class participation is one way to hone your skills of public speaking, which is one of the objectives of this course. Additionally, you will be asked to develop and present a “creative research” project: you can either craft a conventional academic mini-lecture on a topic of your choice or capture your reflections on a particular topic using art media in any genre. We will hold separate meetings to discuss the details.

Learning Objectives
Students, who successfully complete this course, will learn:

➤ To identify and explain main developments in the history of gay, lesbian, transgender, bisexual, and queer culture in the Russian literary and artistic tradition from the nineteenth century to the present;

➤ To define such key concepts as gender, sexuality, queer, heteronormativity, homophobia, homonationalism, and intersectionality in relation to Russian material;

➤ To understand and account for the complexity of factors that shape official and alternative narratives of cultural history, such as context, causality, contingency, authorial perspective and intent, and reliability of sources, especially in the case of Russia;

➤ To apply gender and sexuality analysis to a variety of texts and media;
Policy on Attendance

You are allowed up to TWO absences in class, no questions asked. However, please notify me in writing before missing a class meeting. Please choose your absences wisely, keeping in mind that absences due to illness and athletic commitments count. More than the allowed two unexcused absences will impact your final grade. If you have a family emergency or serious illness, please contact your Class Dean immediately.

Accommodations

Wesleyan University is committed to ensuring that all qualified students with disabilities are afforded an equal opportunity to participate in, and benefit from, its programs and services. To receive accommodations, a student must have a disability as defined by the ADA. Since accommodations may require early planning and generally are not provided retroactively, please contact Accessibility Services as soon as possible.

If you have a disability, or think that you might have a disability, please contact Accessibility Services in order to arrange an appointment to discuss your needs and the process for requesting accommodations. Accessibility Services is located in North College, rooms 021/022, or can be reached by email (accessibility@wesleyan.edu) or phone (860-685-5581).

Moreover, if any assignments conflict with a major religious holiday for your faith, please let me know as soon as possible and we can discuss necessary accommodations.
